

Individual reflection week 4. Felix Edholm

What do I want to learn or understand better?

What is: We started our coding this week and I tried to apply some of MVVM to the project but we did not really come far enough for it to have any real implications so my practical knowledge learning.

What might or should be: I want to really understand the pros and cons of MVVM in a practical and not only theoretical way.

A plan for getting from where you are to where you want to be: When we continue working with views and viewmodels and connecting them to the model I should get a better grasp of MVVM and how to apply it. This will include working with the code hands on as well as reading documentation on best practises etc.

How can I help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

What is: This week I could lend some of my knowledge of Android development to those in my team that have not worked with Android before. I could also help in the merge process, how it works and what to look out for.

What might or should be: I want to continue helping people with things that I have done before that they haven't.

A plan for getting from where you are to where you want to be: When someone expresses that they don't know something that I do know I should lend my knowledge to that person.

What is my contribution towards the team's use of Scrum?

What is: This week I participated in all the Scrum-specific meetings, the planning, the review, the mid week meeting and the retrospective. In all these meetings I participated in discussions as well as wrote some parts of the meetings down. I did not write as much this week as last week.

I took part in the estimation process of the user stories as well.

What might or should be: I hope to continue contributing in the same way that I am at the moment, maybe with some more help writing next week if possible.

A plan for getting from where you are to where you want to be: I should achieve this by continuing to be active during the different meetings and processes by sharing my opinion and continue to participate in the writing down of things we conclude.

What is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

What is: Our main deliveries this sprint was to finish some user stories and write the team reflection. I finished my user story with time over in the week and then there were no more user stories to take on so I did not contribute to any other user stories.

For the team reflection I voiced my opinions on the topics as well as wrote some minor parts of the document.

What might or should be: I should not sit empty handed when there are still team members working on user stories. I should be active in the team reflection meeting

A plan for getting from where you are to where you want to be: During the sprint, if I happen to finish my user story and have time over to take on another but there are none, I should voice this to the team and see if anyone needs help and help where I can. During the team reflections I should continue as I have.
